

Practical Work II

- Description of your work

In the work, there is a variety of information available. You can see that you have a topic, and in my case, I chose the first computer. I talk about the first computers and their creators. Then you can also access other student websites. Different subjects were chosen to provide you with more topics and information. Eventually, you will have access to information about Computer Science courses. And also, you will find my curriculum and information to contact us.

- Problems during the development

Although I had done this class last year, I expected it to be easy, but it wasn't. Organizing my web page with CSS is a challenge for me, but as I gained more confidence, it became easier. My starting time at work was late, which added to the stress of having time on my mind.

- Conclusions.

Putting in hours of work and paying attention in class will lead to results that are worth it.
